Mitchell Life

From classes to dances, organizational meetings to studying — Mitchell Life offers an abundant variety for every student. The ages of our students participating in classes on campus range from 17 to 73. Students at Mitchell are involved with activities on campus in varying degrees; however, opportunities are available for increasing the students' awareness of cultural, civic and personal enrichment.

Fall registration was held on August 31st and September 1st. The first day lines started forming early. Some complained of long lines and others who had been through lines at four year colleges were thankful for what appeared to them as being short lines. Students registered, parking permits obtained, ID cards filled out, yearbook photos made and books purchased. In some cases fines were paid. For the next week, until September 8th, drop/add was held. This enabled students to pick up classes that others had dropped after registration and allowed others to drop classes for whatever reason. For the most part, registration went smoothly for most. Classes began on September 6th.

While at Mitchell, the vast majority of people are compelled to study. Granted, some classes require more out of class time for studying than others. Students find multitudes of ways to study. The LRC (library) provides many quiet areas to concentrate. The Student Union offers many activities for those who need that type of stimuli. For the outdoors person, the grounds of Mitchell provide beauty and fresh air for a quiet, relaxing study atmosphere. Wherever and however studying occurs, Mitchell provides the resources for it. For individual help, there is individualized instruction from instructors, the MIND lab and peer tutors.

Study

May Week, 1988 began on Monday the second. Each day was assigned a special theme. Monday, physical fitness day; Tuesday, sloppy or bum day; Wednesday, Hawaiian day and Thursday, Beach day. Many activities such as, athletic tournaments, the faculty/student Mayfest Art Exhibition, various contests, and SGA elections highlighted the week. All the fun came to a climax on Friday, May Day. The annual program was hosted by Miss Mitchell 1988, Deneal Cline. Entertainment was provided by the music department as well as the 4th and 5th grade classes of Patricia Loudermilt and Maryette Bost of Cool Springs Elementary School. The main event of the morning was the crowning of the May Queen. Ann Marie Beaver received this honor with Margaret Ziglar as her attendant. The week was capped off by an extremely well presented variety show by the Mitchell Community College Choir.

People Helping People

People helping people started when Mitchell was founded. Through the years programs have developed to help those in need. Whether the problem is social, emotional or academic, Mitchell strives to fulfill the needs of its community. Faculty advisors, counselors, and peer tutoring are just a few of the many organized services available. Instructors often help outside of regular class times. Students help students with assignments, academic difficulties and personal problems. The MIND lab is available to help students in all areas of academics. We all share the responsibility for helping each other through class activities, changing flat tires, locating missing books and retrieving car keys from locked cars. Helping and being helped is part of what Mitchell life is all about.

Throwing footballs and frisbees, kicking back to relax in front of the Main Building and shooting pool in the Union are only a few of the activities students fill their leisure time with. The grounds and facilities on campus provide a wide range of possibilities for filling up that ten minutes or an hour between classes. During the Fall, when leaves are "peaking in their beauty", campus walks provide beauty and calmness. Warm buildings during Winter Quarter offer shelter from the cold. Spring activities gear up as soon as the sun warms the air up enough to tolerate outside temperatures. Summer class students can enjoy either cool buildings or the sunshine of the outdoors. Leisure time is important for relaxing and enjoying the people and nature around us.

Leisure

Balloons

Once again the Statesville Balloon Rally decorated the sky with a wide variety of colors and shapes, despite the rain. A balloon lifted off from Broad Street United Methodist Church where some of Mitchell's faculty, staff and students watched. Usually a balloon lifts off from the circle, however; conditions weren't right for a campus ascension.

Have you ever made paper airplanes in class or dropped packaged raw eggs off of fire escapes? Well, if you take business management or physics you might get to experience these two unusual types of classroom experiences. It's not unusual at Mitchell to go on walks around campus pulling leaves off trees for biology, or searching for a criminal during a mock crime scene for criminal justice class. These "unusual" activities can provide fun and learning, that help make class time and academics more meaningful and rewarding.

Class Activities

Money . . . we all need it to aid us in living. Going to school can place financial burdens on students. Fortunately, community college tuition and fees are extremely reasonable. In addition, many scholarships are available to students based on academics and financial need. Work study offers jobs to students so that money can be earned by working for various departments at the college. Other types of financial assistance are available. Most students that attend Mitchell work part-time or full-time — either on campus or elsewhere. Balancing school, study and work is not an easy job in itself. For most of us work is an inevitable and necessary means of obtaining our goals.

Lower right: Wanda Edwards hard at work at the switchboard — answering incoming calls is only part of work as a work-study student. Ever try eating a biscuit or burger while writing a summary or essay? How about eating French fries or potato chips while rehearsing a speech or practicing Spanish? Many meals get skipped or skimmed by students. The rush to class or to the pool table keeps minds off of an empty stomach. The cooks in the Student Union and at area restaurants are ready in case a stomach finally overrides the brain.

Food

From tie-dyed to military, tennis shoes to high heels, the fashions at Mitchell differ with each individual. What a person wears can express the mood he or she is in or can be the first thing grabbed out of the drawer. The most popular style seems to be tennis shoes, jeans and a sweatshirt or tee-shirt. But, any style of dress can be found on campus.

On September 30th, the Student Government Association sponsored the first dance of the year. With Jimmy Campbell, MCC student, as D.J. the action began at 9 p.m. Dancing on the Union floor and munching on snacks and drinks continued until 1 a.m. The Ebony Kinship club presented its first dance of the year on October 7th in the Student Union. Area high school students were invited to attend. "The Flexible Force" entertained a full house from 9 p.m. until late in the evening.

Free hotdogs, cokes and chips! On Wednesday, October 5th, the Student Government Association held its annual Fall picnic on the circle. There was food for all. Music, football and casual sitdowns were evident around campus. Day time and night time students were given hotdogs with chili and slaw, potato chips and a cold coke. SGA elections were held during the picnic. Class officers and a SGA secretary and treasurer were elected. In addition, Phi Theta Kappa sponsored a mock presidential election. The results were:

Bush/Quayle, 61%
Dukakis/Bentsen, 23%
Undecided, 12%

Parking and Tags

In addition to academics, students also learn to be creative in their parking maneuvers and license tag naming. Parking on the grass, in faculty/staff areas, on curbs and under trees — these are only a few of the "forbidden" parking areas for students. The best parking spaces are obtained by the "early-comers". Looking at license tags these days can be a learning experience in itself. We found all types of names, initials and statements . . . not to mention code letters and numbers that only the owner can decipher.

Behind every corner there lurked some ghoulies and goblins who made sure everyone knew it was Halloween. Phi Beta Lambda sold candy and the Criminal Justice Association sold treat bags to benefit the Victims Assistance Program. SGA sponsored a costume contest in which the winner received $20. First place went to Ms. Miller and the nursing students that dressed up as Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs. Second place went to Brad Gaither, Count Dracula and third place went to Wanda Edwards posed as a witch.

This listing of campus leaders from more than 600 of the nation's institutions of higher learning carries only the names of above average students in academic standing, service to the community, leadership in extracurricular activities, and potential. The selection procedure for Who's Who students at Mitchell is as follows: all faculty and staff members are asked to nominate students they feel should be considered. A list of names of students nominated is complied, and the academic record of each student is checked to see that he/she has earned at least 45 quarter hours credit, and that his/her quality point average is at least 2.8. Those students who qualify are asked to complete a data sheet, which includes a listing of extra curricular activities, community work, employment, grade point average, and number of hours earned. These are reviewed by the faculty and staff. A list of the names of students who qualified and who have completed the data sheet is prepared and distributed to all faculty and staff. They are asked to vote for a maximum of ten students. The ten students receiving the greatest number of votes are included in Who's Who. COME ABOARD!

Meet a few of our nurses, you'll want to join our crew!

Sherry Ferguson, RN

" Flexibility in scheduling and opportunities for advancement were my primary objectives in seeking a change in my nursing career.
LNRMC offered the most attractive possibilities in obtaining my goal for advancement, while allowing me to work a schedule commensurate with my lifestyle.
They attempt to look at each individual's professional needs and will work with that individual toward fulfilling those needs."

Irene Caldwell, RN

"I have been employed by LNRMC for forty years and I couldn't have been happier.
Above all, I am so fortunate to have such truly good and capable people to work with in every area.
This is my home and I love it."

Grace Kennedy, RN

I left nursing 20 years ago to devote my time to my family - a husband and four boys. Most of those years I never gave any thoughts to returning to nursing. I had kept in touch with several of my classmates from school and found that in the last five years most of them had taken refresher courses and gone back to nursing. I began thinking of the possibilities. I checked several refresher courses out of town but the timing never seemed right. Then in the summer of 1986 LNRMC advertised a "Refresh Your Skills" Course. A friend of mine kept pushing me to call them, so I did. It's probably the most difficult thing I ever did, but the support and encouragement I have received from the entire staff of this hospital was overwhelming.

LNRMC has employment opportunities available for RN's interested in beginning, continuing, or renewing their career. We can offer the flexibility necessary for today's active lifestyle, the stability of lasting job security and the opportunity to renew your talents in an exciting and growing-oriented environment.

For more information, please contact Gae Elliot, Personnel Coordinator, LNRMC, PO Box 360 Moaresville, NC 28115 or call (704) 663-1113 to schedule an appointment, tour or interview.
